

Psalm 50

Versification from the Anglo-Genevan Psalter
of the Canadian Reformed Churches (used with gracious permission)

Stanza 1 (verses 1-2a)

The Might-y One, the LORD, pro-claims his word; God speaks, and ev - ery - where his voice is heard. He from the ris - ing to the set-ting sun calls all the earth and sum-mons ev - ery - one. Out of his Zi - on God shines forth in splen - dour; all to her per - fect beau-ty hom-age ren - der.

Stanzas 4 & 9 (verses 7-8, 18-19)

"My peo-ple, I will speak, so lis - ten well. I tes - ti - fy a - You meet a thief and choose him for your friend, and with a - dul - ter - gainst you Is - ra - el. I am your God, the God whom you ex - alt. ers your days you spend. You give your tongue free rein for wick-ed - ness, With all your sac - ri - fice I find no fault; dai - ly you bring burnt of - fer - ings be - for all your talk is false and slan-der - ous. Con-tin-ual - ly you speak a-against your fore me and with your wor - ship hon-our and a - dore me. broth - er, and you ma - lign the son of your own moth - er.

Stanzas 10 & 11 (verses 20-23)

"These things you've done, and when I yet kept still you thought I was like Great is my mer - cy. Hap py he will be who with his sac - ri - you and all was well, but now I shall ac - cuse you to your face fi - ces hon-ours me, who in true thank - ful - ness be-fore me bows and so con-front you with your vile dis-grace. Mark this, you who for - get all that God and wor-ships me as he ful-fils his vows, who walks the path of right-eous de - di - gave you, or I will tear you up, and none will save you.
ca - tion. Him I will show my won-ders of sal - va - tion."